01 / THE COLLECTION

One Visual Identity.
Multiple Skincare Formats.

A well-planned skincare range needs packaging that works together in both appearance and function. Different formulations call for different container structures, while the overall presentation should remain consistent.

This skincare packaging set brings together airless bottles, spray bottles, cream jars and squeeze tubes in a coordinated olive-green and gold design. With five packaging models and multiple capacity options, it provides a practical foundation for developing a cohesive skincare product line.

From facial mists and serums to moisturizers and creams, brands can explore different packaging formats within one coordinated collection.

03 / EXPLORE THE FORMATS

Designed Around
Every Skincare Essential.

Each packaging format serves a different product application while maintaining the same visual direction. Explore the individual models and find suitable containers for your skincare formulations.

Model No. PA101 / 01

Airless Bottle
PA101

Designed for skincare formulations that benefit from controlled dispensing, the PA101 airless bottle offers three capacity options: 30ml, 50ml and 100ml.

Its component structure includes a PP bottle, shoulder sleeve and button, an ABS cap, a PE piston and a metal pump core. The versatile capacity range makes it suitable for serums, lotions, moisturizers and other compatible skincare products.

Model No. PB24 / 02

Spray Bottle
PB24

The PB24 spray bottle provides a convenient packaging format for liquid skincare products. Available in 30ml, 50ml, 80ml and 100ml capacities, it combines a PET bottle with a PP spray pump.

It is suitable for facial mists, toners, refreshing sprays and other compatible liquid formulations.

Multiple sizes allow brands to develop different product volumes within the same packaging family.

PP Airless Bottle
PA158

The PA158 offers another airless packaging option for skincare brands. Available in 30ml, 50ml and 100ml capacities, it features a PP cap, pump and bottle, together with a PE piston.

This combination provides a practical packaging structure for compatible serums, lotions and moisturizing products. Its coordinated appearance also makes it easy to incorporate into a multi-SKU skincare collection.

Model No. PJ118 / 04

Cream Jar
PJ118

The PJ118 cream jar adds a classic jar format to the collection. Made from PP, it is available in 15g, 30g and 50g capacities.

Its jar structure is suitable for thicker skincare formulations such as face creams, moisturizing balms and nourishing masks. The rounded profile complements the other packaging formats, helping brands maintain a consistent appearance across their product range.

Squeeze Tube
TU93

The TU93 squeeze tube extends the collection with a flexible PE packaging format. It features a D35 specification, with customized sizing available according to project requirements.

Cosmetic squeeze tubes are widely used for facial cleansers, creams, lotions and other personal care products. Their lightweight structure and familiar dispensing format make them a practical choice for everyday skincare applications.

04 / DESIGN LANGUAGE

A Consistent Look Across Every Product.

The olive-green and gold combination creates a distinctive visual identity for this skincare packaging collection. The restrained color palette and coordinated decorative details bring together different container structures in one recognizable design direction.

For skincare brands, consistent packaging helps organize product categories and build a more recognizable shelf presence. From spray bottles to airless containers and cream jars, each format contributes to the overall presentation of the collection.

Thoughtful packaging. A more cohesive brand experience.

05 / BRAND CUSTOMIZATION

Make the Collection Your Own.

Every skincare brand has its own visual identity. Beyond the original olive-green presentation, Topfeelpack offers custom color and printing options to help brands align packaging with their brand guidelines.
